BROOK'S LAW IN FORCE

PUNISHMENT CAN BE BY STATE COURTS.

No One Can Sell Liquor of Less Than One Half of One Per Cent Without a License.

The Supreme Court of the United States on Monday handed down a decision that will help in the enforcement of law and order in Pennsylvania. There has been a conflict between State Courts and Federal authorities as to which should proceed against those who are bootlegging and selling liquor without license. The decision puts full authority in both the home and federal government.

A man in Fayette county was found guilty of selling liquor without a license. The State Supreme Court upheld the Lower Court and the case then went to the U. S. Supreme Court.

The defendant claimed that the application of the Brooks law to his case, coming after the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment, deprived him of his rights under the Federal Constitution.

His contention was that the State, while it had a right to prosecute him under the national prohibition laws, could not take action under the Brooks law.

In dismissing the appeal Justice Brandeis offered the following interpretation of the Brooks law:

"The Brooks law as construed by the highest court of the State prohibits every sale of spirituous liquor without a license, excepting only such sales as are made by druggists, and these are forbidden to sell intoxicating liquors except on a prescription of a regular physician. The law applies however small the percentage of alcohol, and although the alcohol is not intoxicating. It applies to liquor sold solely for industrial uses. It does not purport to confer upon any one anywhere the right to a license, nor does it authorize the sale of liquor in any city or county having a special prohibitory law."

"It merely grants to the appropriate officials, where such authority exists, discretion to give or to withhold the license under the conditions prescribed. In case of an indictment for selling without a license, a sale is presumed to be unlawful and the burden is on the defendant to show the authority on which he acted. It is thus primarily a prohibitory law, and its prohibitory features are not so dependent upon those respecting license as to be swept away by the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act."

"The State Court declared further that 'the Brooks law still survives as Pennsylvania's one police-power method of officially listing and adequately controlling the customary sources of general supply and distribution, to the people within her borders, of those kinds of liquors among which intoxicating beverages are usually found, and she may thus assist in prohibiting their illegal use as such.' We, of course, accept as controlling the construction given to statute by the highest court of the State. The question before us is whether so construed the statute violates the Federal Constitution."

"The Brooks law as thus construed does not purport to authorize or sanction anything which the Eighteenth Amendment or the Volstead act prohibits and there is nothing in it which conflicts with any provision of either. It is merely an additional instrument which the State supplies in the effort to make prohibition effective."

Gettysburg Looked Over for Camp.

Captain Davis, of the U. S. Army Air Service, was a recent visitor to Gettysburg and was here to inspect the battlefield, and will recommend the selection of this as the site for the maneuvers of the United States Marine Corps in June. He estimated that about 4000 Marines would take part, and that they would be in camp for 10 days. One of the features of the military demonstration will be the co-operation of a fleet of airplanes, and it was found that the battlefield would provide fine landing places for them.

The recommendation for Gettysburg will be made by Captain Davis to General Butler of the Air Service and General Lejeune of the Marine Corps, and an early announcement is expected of the selection of this place. Men will be detailed several weeks before the opening of the camp to make preliminary arrangements and communication by air would be established early with the station at Occoquan, Va. The main body of Marines would march to Gettysburg from Occoquan, starting late in May.

The maneuvers last year at Manassas attracted visitors from many sections and it is expected that a camp here will bring many people here. The experiences at Gettysburg always make this an ideal, healthy camping ground and for airplanes there would be a number of excellent landing places on government ground.

SUPT. OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS

W. RAYMOND SHANK ELECTED SUPERINTENDENT.

The Voting Very Close—First Ballot a Tie and Second One Gives One Majority.

For a number of weeks a contest for Superintendent of Public Schools has been going on quietly in the county. That is quietly as far as the general public was largely concerned, but the school directors of the various districts knew that something was doing.

The school directors met according to law at the Court House on Tuesday, April 11, and 152 of the 170 directors were present. George P. Black, of Gettysburg, was elected chairman of the meeting and Dr. Ira Henderson of Fairfield, the secretary. The tellers were Calvin A. Cluck, of Franklin township, and James E. Bowers, of Littlestown.

As soon as organization had been effected nominations were called for. Rev. T. C. Hesson placed in nomination Prof. H. Milton Roth, who had been the efficient Superintendent, as stated, for 24 years. C. Irvin Brumgard nominated Assistant Superintendent W. Raymond Shank, of Gettysburg. A vive voce ballot was at once taken with the surprising result of 76 votes for each nominee. A tie was declared by the chair.

A second ballot was taken at once and a Gettysburg director left the room before his name was called. All school directors on second ballot voted exactly as they had done on the first ballot, but the director leaving had voted on first ballot for Roth so the result of the second ballot was announced as 76 for Shank and 75 for Roth, and W. Raymond Shank was declared elected County Superintendent of Schools for a term of four years.

W. Raymond Shank is a graduate of Gettysburg College and Shippensburg Normal School. He has taken post-graduate work at Columbia University, New York City. For the past five years he has been an assistant to the superintendent.

Outrageous Legislation Condemned.

Publisher Gettysburg Compiler:

Allow me to call attention to an Act of the Legislature, approved by Gov. Sproul, May 17, 1921, which purports to be for the Better Protection of Fish, but, which imposes a serious tax upon the people of Pennsylvania, and restricts their liberty and independence.

My attention was called to this Act, upon hearing the following item of news which has been published in our county papers: "For fishing a few hours in Pen's Creek without even getting a bite, W. D. Woodling, of Snyder county, was arrested by Miles Reeder, of Mifflinburg, Game Warden, and fined $25 for fishing, without a license."

The Act is No. 257, and a copy may be obtained by any citizen upon application therefor to the Secretary of State, Harrisburg, Pa. It provides that "No person, except as hereinafter provided, shall angle or fish, at any time, in any of the waters of this Commonwealth, or in the waters bounding on or adjacent thereto, without having first secured a license, as hereinafter provided."

Heretofore, it has been the blessed privilege of every man, woman and child to go fishing at will, without restraint of law, but this Act restricts the privilege to certain individuals, each of whom shall pay a fee of $1 for the license, and ten cents to the County Treasurer for his services.

Persons who fish, without a license, thereupon become culprits, and liable to pay a penalty of $25, and the costs, and be imprisoned one day for each dollar of the penalty, unless the fine be paid.

Section 22 provides: "The provisions of this Act shall not apply to nor prevent the owner of any farm or other land situated in this Commonwealth, who actually resides thereon throughout the year, or the members of his family so residing upon said farm or land, from angling or fishing in waters wholly within the limits of said farm or land or within the limits of land abutting thereon, without such license. The exemption provided by the foregoing provisions of this section shall not apply to any person who is not a member of the family of said owner, nor shall such exemption apply to any servant or employee of said owner."

The Act also provides that all the penalties and license fees, to an amount not exceeding $400,000 in any one year, be appropriated for the use of the Department of Fisheries.

This legislation is an affront and insult to all our people. Perhaps, the provisions of the Act are constitutional. Our forefathers not having deemed it probable that legislators would be so indifferent to the rights and privileges of the persons whom they represent. Numerous Acts have been passed in this, and other States, which grind the faces of the poor, and compel them to contribute more than the ordinary sweat of the brow in revenues to sustain excrescences upon the Government.

Editorial expressions of opinion are requested from every newspaper in Pennsylvania upon the subject and purport of this Act.

If the people be informed and aroused at once, they may express their opinions at the Primaries on May 16 of the fitness of the Assemblymen and Senators, who perpetrated this outrageous legislation. Men should be elected to have this Act repealed, and the Department of Fisheries abolished.

YORK ATTORNEY KILLED.

Struck by Car as He Reached His Home.

Ernest A. Armstrong, an attorney of York county, living at Hallam, visited Gettysburg on Thursday of last week. He was accompanied by Assistant District Attorney Amos Herman. They were here to probate the will of Aaron Wolf, late of Abbottstown, an uncle of Mr. Armstrong. The party returned to York in the evening. Going to Centre Square Mr. Armstrong changed to trolley for Hallam and reaching latter place he stepped from car and was struck by an automobile and instantly killed. He was struck directly in front of the residence of his sister, Mrs. W. H. Wolf, with whom he lived. The auto was driven by H. A. Wisotzky, of York, and a native of Gettysburg, and manager of the Maple Press of York, who says he was blinded by the brilliant glare of the trolley headlight. An examination of the body shows that the injuries which undoubtedly proved fatal instantly consisted of badly crushed skull, broken neck and nose, one eye almost torn from its socket and cheek-bone crushed, the right shoulder, right knee and left hip were also fractured.

Ernest A. Armstrong was a graduate of Millersville State Normal School, and Gettysburg College. Following graduation from Gettysburg College he was instructor in mathematics at Millersville, after which he studied law under Attorney Joseph Strawbridge. He was admitted to the York county bar in 1904 and has been actively engaged in the practice since that time. He was aged 32 years, 11 months and 27 days. He was a son of the late Dr. James A. and Mary Wolf Armstrong, and one sister survives him, Mrs. Mame Wolf, of Hallam. Interment was made on Monday in the family plot in the Abbottstown Lutheran Cemetery.

Harry A. Wisotzky was exonerated by Coroner McConkey's jury on Tuesday night from any blame in the automobile accident which resulted in the death of Ernest A. Armstrong.

Witch Doctors Blamed.

Mrs. Sallie Heagy, who shot and killed her husband, Irvin S. Heagy, near Abbottstown, on March 21, and who killed herself in a cell in the York County Insane Hospital last week, is said by her sister and relatives to have been under the influence of witch doctors. That she had visited them repeatedly and they had told her she would have "to kill her husband from the waist up," or else his "influences would destroy her," and repeating this to a sister she added, "I can't harm Irvin." Her relatives plead with her to quit visiting the witch doctors but it is said she continued to talk about spells and upon her by her husband and this condition led up to the killing.

FROCKS

Is Fast Approaching

The smartly designed costumes which compose our apparel displays were selected with an appreciation that Easter is Fashion's own day. Suits, Frocks, Wraps, Blouses and those trifling thought telling accessories inspired by the world's foremost designers have been beautifully interpreted to meet the Easter needs and whims of fashionable women.
